Mary Toppano Judged Winner of Essay Contest

Eileen Hoyle Wins Second
Place: Winners to Receive $10
And $5 War Savings Certificates
As Prizes.

Four entries were received by Chairman Wm. White of the local National War Finance Committee, in the essay entitled "Why My Parents Should Buy Victory Bonds."

Two school teachers, Miss A. Yuill and Mr. Horace Allen were the judges and have chosen Miss Mary Toppano's essay as the best and Eileen Hoyle's as second.

The winner will be presented with a $10 war savings certificate donated by Mr. A. F. Short, and Miss Hoyle with a $5 war savings certificate donated by Chairman Wm. White.

Miss Toppano's essay reads: WHY MY PARENTS SHOULD BUY VICTORY BONDS

To the Mothers and Fathers of Canada:

Perhaps your only son, maybe your youngest son, is now serving with Canada's Armed Forces—there is pride in your heart knowing that he is fighting for freedom, but your son cannot fight with empty hands. This war is a "war of machines." Machines must be made. Machines of war cost money, and it is only you that can supply the huge amount necessary to build the material needed.

Have your son go forward with faith and pride in his heart. Let him know that he can be sure of a gun in his hand, a bullet to shoot, and a plane to fly.

To defeat this enemy our fighting forces must be larger, but they must also be mechanized—mechanized modernly. Only with tanks and guns, stronger and better than those of the "Insulters of Democracy," can we win this war. Buy Victory Bonds to make these facts come true.

It is your children, the next generation, that will suffer the after-effects of this battle of the Free and a Madman." Give them a brighter future, a future with Democracy. Help make Victory sure so that they may also live in a world of liberties.

You can give the Canadian government what she needs to help keep freedom of speech, freedom of the press, and the right to happiness. Prove to yourself and to your children that you can stand as part of a united force in time of need, and that you are a united force in the eyes of God.

MARY TOPPANO.

Miss Eileen Hoyle's essay: WHY MY PARENTS SHOULD BUY VICTORY BONDS

I wonder if the people of the Pass have ever thought how close to us the Japs are. How very easily and quickly a bombing plane could reach here from Vancouver.

What a wonderful beacon and target our cities are to the Japs and how soon our homes could be demolished.

One reason Victory Bonds should be bought is to protect the coast and so, our own town.

One of the strongest and most unanswerable arguments in favour of buying Victory bonds is that this is the surest and quickest way to stop this wholesale murder of human beings.

Purchasing Victory Bonds is a patriotic gesture which will safeguard our loved ones in the fighting forces as well as our homes.

Buying a bond is a profitable

Coleman's "Beacon Fire of Freedom" Seen For Many Miles

Supervised by Air Cadets Committee; Oil Soaked Timber Sends Huge Glare Into Sky.

Coleman's link in the Beacon Fires of Freedom chain which stretched from the Atlantic to the Pacific on Tuesday evening was one in which the Air Cadets and the citizens could be justly proud.

Old timber had been gathered during the day and placed on a vantage point alongside the sports field. Old oil had been secured from local garages and when the time came to light the beacon the oil soaked timber burst into a blazing torch, flames sweeping high into the sky. The beacon was easily visible from Blairmore.

The Beacon Fire of Freedom was sponsored by the Dominion Ceremonials committee. Winston Churchill was asked to light a symbolic Beacon Fire in England, the towns and cities on Canada's Atlantic coast then fired their Beacons of Victory and so on through Canada's broad domain.

The local Beacon of Victory was under the supervision of the local Air Cadet Corps, Stewart Murdoch and Harold Houghton being in charge.

SHOWER

Honoring Miss Gwenfr. J. Dunlop, whose marriage to Sergeant F. Dunlop, of the 4th Canadian Airborne Division, takes place shortly, Miss Helen Diblee entertained about twenty-five guests on Monday evening.

Games and contests were enjoyed by the young people, as well as "community singing."

Following lunch an "aeroplane" was brought into the room, bearing the name of the "Dun-Irving" model. This proved to be packed with many gifts for the bride-elect, for which she ably thanked her friends.

Hospital Board Invests $5,000 in Victory Bonds

Give Local Campaign Big Boost; Cold Weather Slows Canvass

The local Victory Loan drive was given a boost on Monday evening when officials of the Hospital board wrote out an application form for the purchase of $5,000 of Victory Bonds.

This is the second good subscription to come from a local organization, the council having subscribed $850 the week previously. Cold weather has slowed up the canvass, and as a result the totals have not reached the quota of $68,000.

On Wednesday morning the collections totalled $56,000 only $12,000 short of the minimum objective. Many have promised to buy bonds following pay-day and the Loan thermometer is expected to take a sudden spurt upwards when the week-end collections are tabulated.

WEDDINGS

MELLOR - WHEATCROFT

Wheatcroft, of Drumheller, became the bride of James Mellor, eldest son of Mrs. M. Mellor, of Fernie, B.C. Rev. J. R. Hague conducted the ceremony.

The bride, entering the church on the arm of her uncle, Mr. A. Destobell, looked lovely in an afternoon dress of rose-buff with brown accessories and wore a corsage of pink and pink carnations mingled with bouvardia. Her only ornament was a silver cross, a gift of the bridegroom.

The bride's attendant was Miss Dorothy Cooke, of Coleman, who wore an afternoon dress of cornflower blue with navy accessories, and a corsage of pink carnations and bouvardia.

Mr. George Rigets, of Fernie, attended the groom.

During the signing of the register Miss Mamie McLellan sang "Ave Maria."

Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. H. McGillivray, with a reception following later at the home of Mr. Destobell.

Cost Of Modern War

In connection with Canada's most recent war loan, some interesting figures regarding the cost of modern war were given out. This information was assembled by the Dominion Public Relations Committee of the Second Victory Loan, at Ottawa. The figures are, of course, approximate, but they reveal that a soldier's personal equipment, excluding his rifle, costs ninety-five dollars. A Bren machine gun costs three hundred and twenty-five dollars; a two-pounder anti-tank gun, fifteen hundred dollars; a universal carrier (baby tank), five thousand dollars; and a cruiser tank (twenty-eight tons), one hundred thousand dollars. Ammunition, too, costs a great deal. Rifle and machine gun bullets cost five dollars for a hundred rounds; anti-aircraft gun shells, two thousand dollars for a hundred rounds; and a five-hundred pound bomb costs one hundred dollars. A fully equipped infantry battalion, including forty-one officers and eight hundred and ninety-six other ranks, with personal equipment, motor transport, Bren guns, universal carriers and stores, costs three hundred thousand dollars.

All the foregoing figures apply to the army, but the air force and the navy are correspondingly expensive to equip and maintain. An elementary trainer plane costs eight thousand dollars; an intermediate trainer (Harvard), forty thousand dollars; bombers, from one hundred to three hundred thousand dollars, and fighters, planes from twenty-five to fifty thousand dollars. One parachute costs two hundred and thirty-five dollars.

Turning to the Navy we find that a regular type mine-sweeper costs six hundred thousand dollars; a corvette, five hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars; and a motor torpedo boat, one hundred and fifty thousand dollars. In conclusion the report states that the daily cost of maintaining one thousand soldiers in Canada is fifty-five hundred dollars. To keep the same number overseas, the daily cost is seventy-one hundred dollars.

Pay As You Go Policy

We are told that the cost of the war this year alone will be greater than was that of the entire four years of the last war to the people of the Dominion. Wisely looking forward to the post-war period, when a large public debt will mean less financial stability, the government is trying as far as possible to finance the war on a "pay as you go" basis. Taxes and borrowing are the two main sources of government income and an attempt has been made so far, to raise the money for the war half from the taxes and half from loans. As our war effort increases it is likely that both these sources of revenue will have to be used to the utmost. Taxation is already heavy, and because of the price control regulations, sales taxes, and possibly income taxes, will not be increased. It is expected, however, that corporation and excess profit taxes will grow, as may the National Defense Tax. Savings will be demanded increasingly in the form of war loans, and to ensure the growth of savings accounts, as well as to devote more labour and materials to the war work, it is likely that many luxuries will disappear from the market. After March, no new cars will be made either here or in the United States, except for military purposes. No doubt many other things, some luxuries, some commonplace articles, will cease to be produced. It has been hinted also, that we may expect rationing in more things than sugar and gasoline.

More Sacrifices Necessary

Mr. G. W. Spinney, national chairman of the War Finance Committee, recently addressed the Winnipeg Canadian Club and the Winnipeg Board of Trade, and in the course of his address he said: "Capital expenditures outside the strict scope of war needs, except essential expenditures for the preservation of the health of the people, should not be condoned." Compared to the people of Britain, we have not yet made any appreciable sacrifice of money or luxuries, but it appears that if we are to do our part in contributing to the defense of the Empire, we must be prepared to give up more and more, both of money, and of the many comforts which we enjoy. That Canadians will respond to this need there is no doubt, and there is no doubt either, that the more we sacrifice, the more satisfaction we shall feel in the part we are playing in the war that we are now fighting in order to maintain the principles of democracy.

Danger! Liver Trouble is Serious

Are you nervous and irritable—can't sleep or eat—tired out all the time? If you're like that, a faulty liver is poisoning your whole system! Lasting ill health may be the cost!

● Your liver is the largest organ in your body and most important to your health. It supplies energy to muscles, tissues and glands. If unhealthy, your body lacks this energy, becomes enfeebled—youthful vim disappears. Again your liver pours out bile to digest food, get rid of waste and allow proper nourishment to reach your blood. When your liver gets out of order proper digestion and nourishment stop—you're poisoned with the waste that decomposes in your intestines. Nervous troubles and rheumatic pains arise from this poison. You become constipated, stomach and kidneys can't work properly. The whole system is affected and you feel "rotten," head-achy, back-achy, dizzy, tired out—a ready prey for sickness and disease.

Thousands of people are never sick, and have won prompt relief from these miseries with "Improved Fruita-tives Liver Tablets." The liver is toned up, the other organs function normally and lasting good health results. Today "Improved Fruita-tives" are Canada's largest selling liver tablets. They must be good! Try them yourself NOW. Let "Fruita-tives" put you back on the road to lasting health—feel like a new person. 25c, 50c.

"Run Down For Years, Has Perished Health!"

"I was badly run down and terribly nervous. My digestion was poor and I was always constipated. 'Fruita-tives' soon made me healthy and I had no more trouble. I feel like a new man now."—Mr. Roy Dagnau, Charlton, Ont.

"Long Years of Suffering, Now Full of Life!"

"For a long time I suffered from frequent headaches and backaches. I could find no relief until I tried 'Fruita-tives.' The pains came less frequently until I was completely cured. 'Fruita-tives' really made me feel like a new man."—Mr. A. J. Schwartz, Galt, Ont.

The Dangerous Way

War Cannot Be Won By Hoping The Axis Will Collapse
The Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph says: Mussolini is a vain, fat, bald-headed man of 59, who also loves to be around thumping youths in his hangout in emulation of youth virility. He, too, may well be flirting with the undertaker, but that does not prove that Italy is about to break into thirty thousand pieces. The more we refrain from indulgence in wishful thinking about how soon the Axis countries are going to fall apart, and the quicker we get busy tearing them apart, the better it will be for us.

SO YOU'RE GOING TO DO A PLAY?

As the rehearsals proceed and the pattern for the business is set and fitted into the lines, you will find that the young Thespians put down their scripts and try repeating the words from memory. Let them do as much of this as they wish, taking care to secure a prompter, who will do this all important work.

Prompter Important and Essential
Isn't it too early to drag in a prompter? Wouldn't a prompter be waiting a lot of time just sitting around for the next two weeks? Maybe some prompters, but not mine! A good prompter is invaluable! She learns the rhythm and pace of the pattern for the business, the length of the pauses between speeches, and many other important things about the play, so that she never makes a mistake and prompts too quickly the night of performance or of not equally badly mistakes of not prompting quickly enough. A good prompter always marks her script half a page and "WARN . . . gun shot" or "WARN . . . bell ring," so that everything will be ready for the sound effects on cue.

A good prompter always sits in the same place and always follows the script line by line so she is always ready with the right cue. Instead of engaging in conversation with those standing around back stage, a good prompter may pinch hit when one of the cast is ill or away on business. And finally a good prompter gets so accustomed to the various idiosyncrasies of the characters, and the inflections of their voices so if when time of production draws near and one of the members of that cast gets his call to the armed forces, or is transferred or has an emergency operation, the good prompter hands her prompters book to someone else and steps into the show like a veteran performer.

A good prompter is of invaluable assistance to the director in small centres in helping to secure properties, costumes, and many other small things necessary for the successful show. The prompter knows the details of the show, the atmosphere being created and the ultimate end desired and as she visits here and there, she can often pick up an ornament, a piece of furniture, or a bit of jewelry, gloves, etc., that will assist materially in making a top notch performance and one that will do credit to all concerned.

Pace and Rhythm of Whole Play
After several group rehearsals, then it is time to commence full rehearsals of the whole one act play, or one act of a three act play, so that the rhythm and pace will be felt by the players. This lets the actors get the feel of the united whole, how it starts, and develops; swells to a climax here and there, and how it ends. And above all, watch the time in minutes taken to do a whole act straight through without any breaks. You know there is nothing an audience dislikes more than sitting from curtain up at 8.15 until curtain down at 1.15 p.m. when any good three act play shouldn't take more than three hours at the most. Use the Stop Watch. If it is too long, cut it, even if you at first feel that you need every word, as the play progresses, and before it has gone too far, delete some of the phrases. But, of course, do this carefully.

Next time we will talk about properties.

Norway's Commandos

Ability And Toughness Of Troops Have Made Them Famous

It can now be disclosed that Norway has its own Commando troops, especially trained volunteers, who for more than one year have been drilling "somewhere" in Great Britain, and whose ability and toughness are already famous. These Commando-soldiers have been participating in all the last raids on the Norwegian coasts. The greater part of them are young men who have crossed the North Sea in small craft, mostly fishing vessels with the only desire: to fight the Nazis with every means and wherever possible. All of them have special knowledge of some part or other of the Norwegian coast, a knowledge very valuable for the planning and the carrying out of the important tasks now placed on the famous "Commandos." The Norwegian authorities regret the loss of one of the most able and brave Norwegian officers leading the assault on Maoloy. This same officer, a captain, was the first to step ashore at Svalvaer, Lofoten, in March last year, and was mainly responsible for the rounding up of the Germans and quelling them. This time he rushed with a few of his boys directly to the German headquarters at Maoloy in order to take the whole group of Nazis by surprise, but was himself killed in the brief engagement before the German officers surrendered.

Radio Announcers

Proposal Is Made To Establish A School To Train Men

A proposal to establish a school for radio announcers was discussed by members of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters at the concluding sessions of their annual convention in Montreal.

The proposal for the school, which would seek to replace men entering the armed forces, was left in the hands of the newly-elected board of directors for further consideration.

Other problems facing the industry were discussed by the delegates, numbering more than 125 from across Canada, who represent the Dominion's privately-owned radio stations. The convention was extended because of a heavy agenda.

Moscow. Premier Joseph Stalin told the Red army in an order of the day on its 21th anniversary that "we shall throw the enemy from the gates of Leningrad and liberate White Russia, the Ukraine and the Crimea."

"The Red banner will fly everywhere its was flown before," he said.

The Soviet leader added that the Germans are not beaten.

"It would be unlike the Soviet people to delude themselves into the belief that the enemy has already been beaten," he said.

"He is not yet beaten and a stern struggle is ahead of us."

In his preamble he said the Russians had been preparing ever since the last war to meet just such an attack as that launched against the Soviet Union last June 22 by Hitler.

Premier Stalin said:

"This is not the first time the Red army has encountered the Germans. On Feb. 23, 1918, the Young Formations routed the German invaders at Pskov and Narva and by the end of the year dislodged them from the Ukraine."

"In 1919 they preserved the integrity of our country against all efforts of the entente powers."

"The Soviet people never forgot that experience, and prepared themselves for possible attacks."

"Some daring nations who tried to encroach on our territory have already had a foretaste of our power."

"Eight months ago Germany treacherously attacked us, expecting a quick decision."

"Hitler underestimated his new enemy. We retreated but while doing so we dealt telling blows on the enemy."

"We never had any doubt in our minds that the enemy would be halted and eventually routed. The time arrived at last for the Red army to take up the offensive."

"At Tikhvin and Rostov, in the Crimea and before Moscow the enemy was defeated."

"The Moscow and Tula regions have been cleared of the enemy."

"Elements of surprise which formed the German reserve stock of power has been spent."

"The war will now be different in that the disparity caused by this element of surprise no longer exists. Recent events have proved that once this element has gone the German army is no longer as effective as it was."

"Germany has allies fighting with her. So far we have not been in that position. Yet we have succeeded in holding our own."

"New units must be sent to the front to force victory. Industry must work with redoubled energy."

"The army must receive every day more and more tanks, aircraft, guns, machine-guns and other arms. Therein lies the strength of the Red army."

"But the strength of the Red army lies not only in this. Above all it lies in the fact it is fighting a national war of liberation and not an imperialistic war of aggression."

"The task of the Red army is to liberate from the German invaders our Soviet land and the citizens of our villages and towns who were free before the war but are now oppressed and suffering from plunder and starvation."

"Every member of the Red army knows this is a just war, a war of liberation."

"The Red army has a noble cause which is the reason this war is producing thousands of heroes and heroines who are ready to meet their death for their country."

"Therein lies the strength of the Red army and the weakness of the German army."

"Statements appear from time to time in the foreign press to the effect that the Red army aims at the destruction of the German people."

"This is a wicked, foolish lie. It is probable that this war will be about the end of Hitler's clique. We would welcome this solution but it would be ridiculous to identify Hitler's clique with the German people and the German state."

Frank L. Packard, Who Wrote "Jimmie Dale" Series, Is Dead

Montreal. Frank Lucius Packard, 65, author of the widely read "Jimmie Dale" series, died at his home in nearby Lachine after a short illness.

Mr. Packard, whose writing on the amateur detective theme had thrilled the American youth for many years, had been living in retirement for several years and friends said he had given up writing.

Born at Montreal, Feb. 2, 1877, he was educated here and graduated from McGill University in 1897. Later he took a post-graduate course at L'Institut Montefiore in the University of Liege, Belgium.

He was engaged in engineering work in the United States for a number of years and began writing for various magazines in 1906.

Loss Of Tankers Serious

Munitions Minister Says Gasoline Shortage Is Becoming Acute
Ottawa.—Canada's gasoline shortage is becoming more acute and the loss of tankers has recently reached serious proportions, Munitions Minister Howe told The Canadian Press.

Sinking of United States tankers in the Gulf of Venezuela recently would not directly affect the Canadian supply, Mr. Howe said.

"We are losing tankers, though, and the gasoline situation is getting steadily worse," he added.

"Gasoline rationing coupons are still likely to be good for five gallons each when the rationing plan becomes effective April 1 but if conditions warranted it a change in the amount allowed purchasers would be made," he said.

The government's original announcement of the gasoline rationing plan gave five gallons as the likely amount of gasoline allowable for each coupon but warning was issued that the amount might be adjusted as supplies varied.

Greece Under Nazis

Says Thousands Will Die Of Starvation During Year

New York.—J. Wes Gallagher, Associated Press war correspondent, returned home from London for a brief visit and a chance to regain the 35 pounds he lost in a two-year swing through 16 European countries and four different wars.

Most impressive of all to Gallagher were the Italian-Greek and German-Italian-Greek campaigns during which he travelled "with the half starved Greek army."

Greece, said Gallagher, who remained in Athens after the Germans took over, has received "the worst treatment of all the defeated countries."

When he left Greece last June, he said, natives from whom all food and things of value had been taken, were digging for roots in vacant lots and a responsible authority told him of starvation during the year.

At Least 200 Japanese Pilots Lost In Battle For Singapore

Batavia, N.E.I.—The Japanese lost at least 200 pilots in the battle for Singapore, according to information given the news agency Aneta by three Australian fliers who escaped to Java in the final hours of the siege.

The young pilots said that, with the Japanese already in possession of the Kelang airfield, they repaired their damaged planes in a nearby garage, and took off for Java through a hail of enemy machine-gun fire.

Destroy Naval Shipping

London.—The Royal Navy with the aid of the Royal Air Force destroyed 148,000 tons of Axis merchant and naval shipping on the supply routes to Libya in the three months ending Jan. 31, 1942. A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, announced. "The good work still is going on," he said in a BBC overseas broadcast.

An engagement of interest, just announced in London, Eng., is that of Miss Hope Gilmour to Lieut. Alastair Francis Buchanan. The bride-to-be is the daughter of the late David Gilmour and Mrs. Gilmour, Ottawa. Lieut. Buchanan is the youngest son of the late Lord Tweedsmuir and Lady Tweedsmuir. Lieut. Buchanan is adjutant of the 8th Canadian Reconnaissance Battalion. He met his fiancée in Paris two years ago. Miss Gilmour went overseas last September to serve with the Women's Transport Service. Since her arrival in Britain she has been attached to the Polish army as an ambulance driver.

GERMAN SUBMARINE OFFENSIVE TO PREVENT REINFORCEMENT OF UNITED STATES PACIFIC FLEET

London.—Three big German warships, the 35,000-ton battleship Tirpitz, the 10,000-ton pocket battleship Admiral Scheer and the 10,000-ton cruiser Admiral Hipper, were reported steaming northward along the Norwegian coast, apparently as part of a plan to cut American-British supply routes to Russia.

A Stockholm despatch to The Daily Express reported the movement of the ships toward Trondheim and said:

"Their job is to keep British naval forces tied up in the North sea and raid convoys on the Murmansk route to Russia."

The battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau and the cruiser Prinz Eugen which recently escaped from Brest to Heligoland "probably will join them as soon as they have been repaired," the despatch added.

Germany has launched a submarine offensive in the North Atlantic from the Azores to Greenland, to co-operate with Japan by keeping United States naval units in the Atlantic and preventing reinforcement of the United States Pacific fleet, informed sources said.

These sources declared that early in February no less than 34 U-boats were known to be at sea in the North Atlantic. This probably means, they added, that actually there were three times as many operating in this area at that time.

Japanese demands for naval co-operation were said to have been made at an Axis conference in Bavaria early in January. Vice-Admiral Karl Doenitz, in command of the U-boat fleet, was said to have told them he would use "pack tactics" on the sea lanes near Europe and best crews would range the North American coast.

Original opening date for the campaign, according to these reports, was April 1. Instead, renewed Japanese urging led the Nazis to open their campaign two months ahead of schedule, the sources added.

Hitler was said to have given Doenitz the same latitude which the Kaiser gave Admiral von Tirpitz in the spring of 1917, when the Germans announced the opening of unrestricted submarine warfare.

German U-boat building was said to have been stepped up this winter at inland factories, from which the ships then were shipped to Bremen and Kiel to get their "blood baptism" in minor operations off the coast.

The attacks on Allied tankers moving out of Aruba in the Netherlands West Indies and along the eastern coast of the United States were seen as designed to cripple the world's dwindling tanker fleet.

British sources predicted that the Germans, after three months of the heaviest U-boat offensives ever seen, might gamble on sending one of their larger warships into the Caribbean to attempt a knockout blow at Aruba and its refineries. By then, according to this plan, the submarines already would have forced the Allies to disperse their heavier surface ships and such an operation might be executed successfully.

The informants said that among the submarine commanders operating in the western Atlantic are Capt. Hardegen, directing operations of a flotilla off the coasts of the United States, and Capt. Von Tiesenhause, credited with the sinking of the battleship Barham in the Mediterranean last November.

The flotilla headed by Hardegen, one of the most publicized U-boat officers in Germany since the death of Guenther Prien, was credited in a recent Berlin communiqué with the sinking of eight ships, "including three tankers in the immediate vicinity of New York harbor."

Nazis Order 400,000 Russians From Northern To Southern Ukraine

Berne.—Germany has ordered the transfer of 400,000 Russian farm workers from the northern to the southern Ukraine as part of a gigantic food production program for 1942. ## PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL ANNOUNCES REORGANIZATION OF HIS BRITISH WAR CABINET

London.—Prime Minister Churchill announced a reorganization of his war cabinet, the appointment of Sir Stafford Cripps as lord privy seal and house of commons leader and the replacement of Lord Beaverbrook by Oliver Lyttelton as minister of state in charge of production. Lord Beaverbrook will go to the United States.

The changes, involving a reduction from nine to seven in the personnel of the war cabinet, were believed a prelude to realignment of the main cabinet as demanded by powerful parliamentary critics.

The two ministers dropped from the war cabinet were Sir Kingsley Wood, chancellor of the exchequer, and Arthur Greenwood, minister without portfolio.

Clement Attlee, who has been Mr. Churchill's deputy in the house of commons, becomes dominions secretary, succeeding Viscount Cranborne.

Lord Beaverbrook declined to join the war cabinet on account of the state of his health, the announcement said. He will work in the United States to co-ordinate pooling of the United States resources in the war effort.

Sir Stafford, a Labor leader and rising star in the British political field, replaces Mr. Attlee as lord privy seal and will represent the prime minister in the house of commons. His appointment is one of those demanded by the press and public since his return from Russia, where he served as ambassador.

Mr. Lyttelton, who has been minister of state in the Middle East, will exercise "general supervision over production," presumably along the same lines as Lord Beaverbrook had followed.

Also remaining in the war cabinet with the prime minister were Labor Minister Ernest Bevin, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Sir John Anderson, lord president of the council, who was responsible at one time for much of Britain's civilian defence organization.

London's newspapers were united in praise for two new members of Prime Minister Churchill's war cabinet, Sir Stafford Cripps and Oliver Lyttelton, but some demanded that other changes be made.

The Daily Mail (Conservative) said: "We congratulate Mr. Churchill on his decision to reconstruct his government. Further important changes in the government are still necessary and coming. Better men can be found for a number of ministries outside the war cabinet."

Both Sir Kingsley Wood, chancellor of the exchequer, and Arthur Greenwood, minister without portfolio, should have left the cabinet long ago. The Mail declared, because "neither is of the calibre necessary for an inner council which is charged with direction of the greatest war in history."

The Daily Express, Independent and owned by Lord Beaverbrook who is leaving the post of production minister, said: "Mr. Churchill has not gone all the way his critics demanded. But he has met them squarely and given them a fair deal."

Mr. Churchill has yielded to a clamor for a change. Give this new team a chance to lead Britain through these dark and hazardous days. More than ever now this country needs to set an example of unity and strength of purpose to the whole alliance."

The News-Chronicle (Liberal) said one of the benefits of the reorganization was the removal of those "who for a long time past have plainly been unproductive," but asserted that left unsolved production problems and until they are "radically resolved the premier will remain faced by a basic weakness in his organization for victory."

BRITISH ARMY HAS AIR-BORNE AND PARACHUTE FORCES NOW TRAINING READY FOR ACTION

London.—The British army has air-borne troops in training and parachute forces ready now for action, Capt. David Margesson, war secretary, announced. He declared new armored divisions have been formed and those in the "Middle East" reinforced.

Outlining this broad picture of strengthened striking power, Capt. Margesson said that because of equipment shortages and the need for older type weapons already in production, the army had been unable until last fall to convert large numbers of infantry into artillery and armored units "of which we were woefully short."

Without disclosing any details of the strengthening of armored formations in a zone he described only as "the Middle East," the war secretary declared that the reinforcement "process is continuing."

He said that in Malaya, however, British forces had been up against "hardened soldiers with four years experience in a type of warfare with which we were totally unaccustomed."

In that ill-starred campaign, he said, there had not been time for troops to get essential preliminary battle training—often not time even for them to become accustomed to the equatorial jungle climate after their long sea voyage in cramped quarters.

Capt. Margesson declared the British army is training air-borne troops, and already has a number of parachute and air-landing units ready for action.

This was the first official announcement that the British army is planning to use air-borne infantry like that which has served Germany and Japan well.

In addition, he said, a number of new armored divisions have been formed.

"We have practically completed formation of the required number of anti-tank regiments," he said, recounting the progress of army development.

Of the situation in Libya, he said that at present the British forces "in some respects were at a disadvantage with the Germans" in tank warfare.

He referred to "the insidious and false suggestion" which he said is "now finding some expression in newspapers of the United States" that Britain is "wishing to accept arms and equipment from any and every source, but not willing to send our soldiers out to fight with them."

"Of every 100 men killed and wounded in the land fighting in Libya since the beginning of the war," he said, "about 70 have come from this country."

He said the sending of troops to foreign theatres must be considered in the light of first, the absolute necessity of defending this country, "an arsenal from which arms are flowing to all the Allied nations," and second, "the availability of shipping."

NOTES AND COMMENTS

Clap-Trap and Flapdoodle

Ridiculous piffle for which legislative members receive each $2,000 a year of the taxpayers' hard earned money, and $4,000 in the Federal house, besides privileges which save them considerable money, also at the taxpayers' expense, at times make one wonder that Democracy functions at all in wartime. Read some of the clap-trap that goes on at Edmonton, and also in the Federal house from would-be idealists who appear to lack entirely practical sense and it makes you wonder by what chance of opportunism they were ever elected. A hurried glance recently over the pages of Hansard revealed a long rambling harangue of over forty minutes duration in the Federal house by a lady member which had as little relation to the war effort as an elephant to a flea. You read of the daily doings at Edmonton legislative halls, and you become absolutely fed up and disgusted that rules of the House permit such brainless diatribes to be uttered. Of course, a government is only the reflection of the people which elects it. To give an example of the ignorance of people who presumably have the power to help elect a government, in listening to a quiz program by radio last Saturday, in which the questions were confined entirely to interesting points on the Victory Loan campaign, it was appalling to note the utter lack of knowledge by some of the contestants. It made one ask—do they ever read newspapers, or do they observe anything at all concerning the vital things of life, and this war in particular? It demonstrates the fact that many are not even sufficiently intelligent or wide-awake to be trusted with voting power. No wonder we have such mediocrity in our legislatures. And that's using too mild a word when one reads the addresses of some of the members.

Grattan O'Leary in a magazine article referring to the debate on the plebiscite in the House of Commons stated: "No flaming spirit spoke out for or against the plebiscite. No solemn note was struck in harmony with the war's peril. At times, indeed, the debate fell below the level of even mediocrity into a pitiful buffoonery, with all the empty laughter and desk-thumping of a parish-pump Donnybrook."

The same might apply to Alberta's legislature, and its peculiar propaganda for monetary reform, etc.

Canada's Part in Supplying Munitions

Despite criticisms on governmental conduct of Canada's war policy, the marshalling of various industries into war production has been accomplished with efficiency and with little publicity. Of course, the credit really belongs to those organizations whose executives responded to the call to turn from peace time to war time production. We see comparatively little of this activity in western Canada, but in eastern Canada it is indeed a revelation to see what is being produced. Such famous firms as the John Inglis Co. Ltd., Fairchild Aircraft Corporation, Chrysler's, the Simards of Sorel, the Ford Co., and many others, have done a stupendous job with very little fanfare.

A Bolingbroke Bomber requires 40,000 man hours to build. It takes 3,000 specifications, 14,000 blueprints, 600,000 rivets, 80,000 detail parts. 15 bombers a month was the target the Fairchild Corporation set for itself last June; it may have been exceeded since. At the John Inglis Co. besides thousands of Bren guns and other weapons, triple expansion marine engines for Canadian naval vessels are being built. Chrysler's are turning out the famous 25-pounder field gun and the Bofors anti-tank rifle, of which there are none superior to their type anywhere. Tanks are being turned out by the Canadian Pacific Railway at their huge Montreal shops. Automobile manufacturers are making army transport wagons and tanks instead of pleasure cars. Canadian industry has risen to the heavy demands of highly mechanized war. Team work between employers and employed has played a very vital part in wartime production.

We Must Do Our Part

Staggering though the cost is of modern warfare, to maintain our way of life is worth all we can throw into the fight. Wealth, in terms of money, would vanish if we became subject to another nation. To keep our armed forces equipped to meet powerful enemies, everyone of us must give or lend all we can, regardless of selfish interests. On Sunday Sir Stafford Cripps, speaking from London to arouse interest in Canada's Victory Loan, said that in Russia everything is sacrificed by the civilian population to enable the army to be well clothed and equipped. Their standard was much below ours, yet they willingly gave up what comforts they have so that the army should not go short. He felt that neither in Britain or Canada had we approached that spirit of sacrifice, and that is true. There is not a wage-earner who could not put aside something additional to what he is now doing, to give an added measure of financial support to the war costs. It is the small bonds of several millions of Canadians that will prove very helpful, not only in paying costs of the war, but in bringing a return in the post war years which will eliminate much of the distress and unemployment experienced following the last war. It's a job that must be shouldered by everyone who is a Canadian citizen.

Mail Now For Easter Overseas

Easter comes early this year, and the Canadian Post Office Department advises that all Easter messages, greetings and parcels to our Armed Forces in the United Kingdom should be mailed without delay.

Honourable William P. Mulock, K.C., Postmaster General, in urging that early Easter mailings be made the rule, points out that Easter mail should be posted during the next week or ten days.

The approach of Easter always augments the volume of correspondence, parcels, etc., and this year, especially, with increased numbers of our forces overseas, the Easter mailings will be correspondingly heavier.

All mail should be correctly addressed and fully prepaid, and a return address given in every case. Parcels should be properly packed, wrapped and tied, with completed Customs Declarations affixed. Observance of these rules will further help ensure arrival in time for Easter.

NEWSPAPERS' CONTRIBUTIONS TO WAR SERVICE APPEALS

In the campaign for the Victory Loan, as in other campaigns for war loan and war services appeals, the newspapers of Canada have given generously of their space without payment to help in the fight for Victory. True, they have received regular rates for the advertisements issued by the Department of Finance and war service agencies, and have also received support in advertisements carried by patriotic business men. But the amount of free space given by all newspapers far exceeds the paid advertising received, for they feel that their contributions are in keeping with the traditions of the Press to promote and safeguard the ideals of Democracy for which we are now engaged in a world-encircling war.—H.T.H.

Miners Trounced Canmore in First Game of Play-Offs

Went Scoring Wild in Third Period; Take Five Goal Lead Into Second Game.

In cold zero weather and before a mere handful of rabid hockey fans on Saturday evening, Miners literally smashed the chances of Canmore Intermediate to march into the third round of the Provincial play-offs by trouncing them 6-1. Miners now take a 5-goal lead into the second game which was scheduled to be played at Canmore last Monday night.

Joyce opened the scoring for Miners on an assist from Kwasnie. Three minutes later Shellan, assisted by Sandrelli, tied the score and Miners went ahead again on a goal by Mozell assisted by Murdoch. During the latter half of the period there were some stormy scenes when Referee Chakowski failed to control his impulse to send off local players at the slightest infraction. So over-anxious was he that Referee Gate had to take a hand in the proceedings. Mr. Chakowski remained quiet during the rest of the game.

The second period was scoreless. Play was about even.

The third period saw Miners take over definite command of the game. Kwasnie, the mainstay of the Miners' team at the present time, stickhandled through the entire opposition to score in 26 seconds. Fleming added another on an assist from Field. Jock Moore banged home Coleman's fifth goal on a ganging attack by Joyce, Mozell and himself. 45 seconds later Moore came back to feed Joyce a perfect pass for the latter to score easily.

Kwasnie and Jerva started a wrestling match on the ice and both were sent to the cooler.

CHAPTER X.

Tamar wondered at the sound of Ransome's voice. He had seen Christopher get out of her car. Could he possibly be jealous?

"Take you somewhere?" she asked sweetly.

Ransome's eyebrows shot up. He had heard that tone before. It had danger signal in it. Once more he was only 19 and a member of the exploring party, and she by some right had attained the title of De Soto, and he must take her orders.

"Yes, my liege," he grinned.

"Ranny, you make me so mad!" There's sparks in your eyes, Tamar, he wanted to say. Instead he asked, "Will you lunch with me, Miss Randolph?"

"Why not?"

"Shall we try the Kandy Kitchen?" "It would be a bit embarrassing. I just turned down an invitation from a gentleman who is now eating there," she said honestly. "How's about it for some oysters from the grille?"

"Right. And I'm starved." He motioned toward the empty rail around the Courthouse. "If you're careful, you can squeeze it in here beside that Packard without smashing your fenders."

"Ranny, don't go to making fun at Tahlahneka now. These empty parking places do have their advantages," she said, turning in beside a ramshackle spring wagon. "That looks like the Fetters' conveyance."

"What model is that style of conveyance? Or aren't the new ones out yet? Oh!" he said suddenly. "Fetters? I'd surely like to talk with him again."

"Better not," she advised. "Better let it go unnoticed. If he should repeat your questions and it got back to the major, then he would be suspicious of your interests."

"Yes, but if they took over out of the Cricket Hill in February," he said hotly, "he needs to be more than suspicious."

Ranny sprang out of the green coupe and as he walked around to help her out, continued: "I've thought of it a lot since you signed those contracts. Maybe we did wrong to let it be kept a secret."

She laid her hand on his white linen sleeve. "Please don't, Ranny. Things are going so well out at the mine."

"All right, it's your mine."

"I'm not dressed for dining in a hotel grille," Tamar said suddenly remembering her slacks.

"Well, perhaps not the Waldorf-Astoria," Ranny agreed. "Come on, now, you know that there won't be a soul inside excepting a lone travelling salesman or two. Perhaps Dick Sheridan and his father."

Marjean, the waitress flicked off the table as they sat down; did it deftly with a twist of her wrist and the red-checked towel. With another motion she set two glasses of water down. She handed them the menus and said naively: "What'll it be to-day?" While she waited for their decision, she pushed her red hair aside with the back of her hand. The most experienced waitress in Tahlahneka!

Tamar looked at her in dismay. Then she remembered that the grill's oysters really made up for the lack of service.

Ransome ordered expertly and in his deep voice that left Tamar with the feeling that he was now acting out of character. She mentally shook her head. Would she never remember that they were both grown up? And that after all, Ranny was the youngest executive in his father's bank, and had a right to express assurance in his very fine speaking voice.

He had changed so much in his four years away at college. They had met during the holidays at Shadwell and other places for Christmas parties and Easter vacations during those four years, but somehow she was always surprised when she saw him.

"Penny?"

"Oh, Ranny, I was just thinking about how funny I felt the first time I realized that you were grown up!"

"Man's estate and all that?" he asked. "Well, you gave me a shock too, young lady. I left you with long curls bouncing around your shoulders while you raced around the meadows on Madcap. Came back to Shadwell to bring some of the Christmas cheer that we keep in bottles, and what do I find? A dewy, divine debutante."

"You left out one word, didn't you?"

They both laughed and looked up to see Dick and his father coming into the room. "Here come Sheridan and Sheridan," said Ransome. "If you dare ask them to sit down and ruin my perfectly good luncheon date with you, I'll beat you."

Tamar slid forward on the edge of her seat. "Hello," she welcomed the Sheridans. "Of course, I don't mind your asking them to eat with us, Ransome. Do sit down. Ransome was just saying that he never gets to see you any more."

"No, only morning, noon and night," grumbled Ransome to Dick. "Excuse me, sir, this isn't meant for you," he apologized to Mr. Sheridan.

The older Sheridan's eyes beamed. "It's too bad that we can't accept your pressing invitation Ranny, but we have a most important matter to discuss while we eat. Come with me, my boy."

"Thanks, Mr. Sheridan. You're a real pal. Go on, Dick, I'll pay for your lunch some other time."

"You're terrible, Ranny. Honestly you are," Tamar said, as they settled down once more.

"If that's a sample of your Southern hospitality, I'll take vanilla. Ready?" she asked as Marjean approached with a heavily loaded tray.

"Excuse me, for a moment. I'll have to telephone Dad, or Phoebe'll make him wait for me."

Ransome watched her as she walked across the dining hall to the public telephone. Her voice was silvery in the quiet of the room. He wished he could make her see how much he loved her, wished that she'd forget they had been childhood companions all their lives. Had she for a brief time seen anything romantic in him when he came back from college, or merely noticed that he had lengthened out and broadened through the shoulders?

"Of course, Phoebe. Hear me? I won't be home for lunch. I'm terribly sorry, Phoebe. Yes, I know how good it is, but do go on and give my poor starving father his lunch, married for years!" And was sorry immediately.

Wish you could have gone to the last week, he hastened on. I don't want any fun without!

"I thought Selby went. She's lots of fun and I understand that she had a grand time," she said maliciously, with undertones and things stirring in her voice. Selby had told her Ranny's tea and dropped two lumps of sugar in it and mechanically speared a slice of lemon for it. She looked up suddenly, and found him observing her with a smile playing about his lips.

CALL FOR SERVICE

Lieutenants F. B. and W. R. Cooper and Nursing Sister Rosalie Cooper

A stirring example of response to the call for service with the fighting forces has come to light through two recent enlistments into No. 40 Company, Canadian Dental Corps, which is attached to No. 4 Training Command of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Lieuts. W. R. and F. B. Cooper were formerly Doctors W. R. and F. B. Cooper of Moose Jaw, Sask., and Nursing Sister Rosalie Cooper, their sister and dental nurse.

The dentists enjoyed an extensive practice at Moose Jaw but when the call went out for health services with the fighting forces they closed their office, Miss Cooper joining the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps as a nursing sister, while Doctors "Bob" and "Fred" entered the dental services of the Royal Canadian Air Force and are now attached to No. 4 Training Command, Calgary, serving under Major R. H. McDougall, Command Dental Officer.

Doctors W. R. and F. B. Cooper graduated from the University of Toronto in 1925 and their sister graduated as a nurse from the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto, two years later.

Together they constituted the entire staff of the dental office conducted by them at Moose Jaw.

their lunch and leaving, they noticed, and Tamar glanced at her watch. "I promised to take Mr. Sande back to the Cricket Hill in an hour. The time is up, Ranny, so I'll have to dash."

Ransome picked up the check and walked over to the cashier.

Weren't the oysters good to-day, Mr. Todd?" asked Marjean, anxiously studying the frown on his forehead.

"Very fine oysters," he said. He held the door open for Tamar, and they hurried to her coupe.

In the doorway of the Kandy Kitchen, he could see the tall frame of Christopher Sande. In another moment he would be coming out to the car. Ranny nodded and said stiffly: "Nice to have seen you, Tamar."

She was busy with the starter and said: "Thanks for the—why Ransome Todd, what's the matter with you?" Then she wanted to clasp her hand across her lips to close off her question. Ranny was jealous! She had thought so a little while ago and now it was perfectly evident. His eyes had a positive gleam of something in them.

"Not a thing, Tamar. But did it ever occur to you that it might not be exactly the thing for you to run around over the country by yourself, now that there are so many men working around the Cricket Hill? I'm surprised at you."

"Don't bother your head over me, Ranny. I always have taken care of myself—and still can," she said defensively.

"Remember the time I pulled you out of the Chestate? And the time you were so scared of lightning and wanted to run into the tunnel of the mine? And I didn't let you, and a big rock fell in the opening during the storm?"

"Go away, Ranny!" she smiled at him. "I'm a big girl now."

"And a very desirable big girl, too!" he said grimly. "Here comes your engineer!"

Got Used To It

Unnamed Soldier Sets A Good Example To Others

An unnamed young soldier out in Hawaii has a message for you.

He didn't know he had a message. But he had. A correspondent touring the new defenses of Hawaii found him in a secluded dugout, where he was sleeping on the hard ground. Asked if that wasn't pretty tough, the young soldier grinned, spat, and delivered his message: "Was. Not now. Used to it."

The sooner we get into that frame of mind about how tough it is to undergo the thousand little inconveniences that go with war, as well as the real sacrifices, the better. The end of the war will be in sight when 11,000,000 people are saying about how tough it is to make their own sacrifices: "Was. Not now. Used to it." Calgary, Alberta.

Red Cross Spikes False Reports Re Supplies

Headquarters Submit Written Report as to Actual Distribution Of Supplies Received From Red Cross Branches.

Some thoughtless person or persons have started false rumors regarding the actual distribution of articles received at provincial Red Cross headquarters from the various country branches. As a result of this some of the faithful workers at the local branch threatened to stop making articles for the Red Cross unless they were given assurance that such reports were untrue. Mrs. H. Sherratt, of the Coleman Red Cross Work committee, wrote Mrs. E. G. Mason, provincial chairman of the Women's War Work committee regarding the actual distribution of supplies and received the following answer: Calgary, Alberta, February 19, 1942.

Mrs. H. Sherratt,

Dear Mrs. Sherratt:

In reply to your letter of February 17th, regarding distribution of supplies. The bulk of made-up articles as well as quilts and blankets go to Great Britain. Hospital Supplies go to hospitals, and civilian clothing and bedding to the victims of air-raids. Comforts are given to the men of the Services in Canada, upon requisition of their Commanding Officers and hospitals for the above, also in Canada, get supplies when required.

Trusting this is the information you desire,

Yours sincerely,

K. E. MASON,

Provincial Chairman,

Women's War Work Committee. This will allay the fears of the faithful workers and spike the false reports that some seek to spread in an endeavor to injure the work of an organization which succors the wounded and homeless in war torn lands and which also saves the federal government millions of dollars yearly by doing work which the government would be forced to do if the Red Cross failed to exist.

The executive of the local branch of the Red Cross asks citizens to report any person making untrue statements regarding Red Cross work and if in doubt as to any point on Red Cross matters a cordial invitation is extended to every member of the executive who will be only too glad to answer all questions.

Bill Chappell, unit organizer at Blaimore, is most anxious that the Coleman committee be informed that every Chinese citizen of Blaimore came through when approached to purchase a bond. He is delighted with the response. What William and his Blaimore committee does not know, however, is that in Coleman the first purchaser of a bond at the bank was a Chinaman. This son of China did not wait to be snatched. He knew his duty and lost no time in putting his money on the line. We have 'em well trained here, Bill!
